Our Amateurs Demon strate More Than Average Ability

The Photographic exhibition at the Promotion Committee rooms opened at noon today. It should be well attended, not only by the strangers within our gates but by the general public of the city, as it well repays the trouble of going there. The first thing which strikes the visitor, is the general excellence of the work presented from a technical standpoint, as well as from the artistic point of view. It becomes very apparent that the city has a number of clever amateurs, who know how to take advantage of the splendid chances which our beautiful scenery and motley population presents to the man behind the shutter. While a wide range of subjects are covered by the different exhibitors, the exhibit which strikes the eye at once is that of Eben P. Low, whose collection of pictures from his ranch on Hawaii are unexcelled both from technical bandling and taste is concerned. One of Low himself, showing him as "Rawhide Ben." among the snowy slopes of Mauna Kea, which at one time were so dear to Promotion men, is especially

R. A. Buchanan of Mani shows a collection of beautiful productions, with a tone and finish which one would think was almost beyond photographic R. T. & L. Co. Com., $57. Dr. Monsarrat's picture of Harry Whitney is a splendid portrait study

Among the exhibitors are W. D. Bar low, F. Bechert, Otto Bierbach, L. Lewton-Brain, R. A. Buchanan, Mrs. R. A. Buchanan, E. H. Edwards, Frederic Franz, Mrs. H. E. Gares, A. Gartley Jr., James Gulld, J. Kotinsky, C. M Loysted, Eben P. Low, Mrs. Eben P. Low, W. T. Monsarrat, R. Nakayama. T. O'Brien, W. T. Pope, A. N. Sinciair Mrs. S. I. Shaw, Rev. W. D. Westervelt. Rev.
